

POLICY against sexual and commercial abuse of children

Tourism is an important source of income for countries, regions and locations that brings undoubted benefits such as economic development, cultural exchanges and the international promotion of a particular place, among others.

Tourism is increasingly accessible to everyone and the number of people is constantly increasing people who have the opportunity to visit more places.

However, in the same proportion that tourism has grown, undesirables have also grown phenomena such as the commercial sexual exploitation of children and adolescents. Tourism infrastructure, which serves to facilitate the stay of travelers, can also to be, not consciously, a place for the promotion and execution of sexual activities with minors.

Our hotel rejects this type of tourism and:

1. Maintains a policy against the commercial or sexual exploitation of children and teenagers.
2. It does not allow any commercial or sexual exploitation of children and adolescents on our facilities.
3. Raises staff awareness of the problem, laws and risks.
4. Trains all staff to report and identify suspicious activity.

Procedure:

If you are suspicious, you should contact your supervisor immediately.

Then the competent authorities will be informed about the incident, so that they can act accordingly.

As people, we are committed to protecting children and adolescents from all forms exploitation, whether occupational or sexual.
